Introduction

This policy sets out ForHousing's approach to ensuring that all communal areas are well kept, meet all regulatory requirements and are a safe place for residents, their visitors, contractors and ForHousing staff. In order to achieve this, ForHousing operates a zero tolerance, sterile areas approach.

A sterile areas approach means that residents and their visitors are not permitted to use communal areas to store or dispose of their belongings or rubbish.

Policy

This Policy applies to all internal and external common parts of blocks of flats to ensure they are kept free of obstructions or hazards to protect the health and safety of tenants and other users of the buildings.

A communal area is any area that is not within the confines of the tenant's property. For example - corridors, balconies, stairways, landings, lobbies, meter cupboards, external gardens, bin stores, entrances to buildings, garages, and parking areas.

Scope of the Policy

The Policy applies to all tenants, leaseholders, employees, contractors, and anyone else using the internal and external communal areas of ForHousing residential premises. The following areas are included:

- Internal communal corridors, for example porches, entrance halls, landings, staircases
- Internal shared facilities, for example bin stores, bin chutes, meter cupboards, laundries
- Internal social facilities, for example communal lounges, kitchens, guest rooms
- External areas, for example communal gardens, through routes and shared balconies.

Examples of obstructions and hazards include, but are not limited to:

- Rubbish and other items such as furniture awaiting disposal
- Furnishings such as mats, pictures on walls, and flowerpots
- Bicycles, motorised cycles, prams, scooters, wheelchairs and mobility scooters
- Hardware such as tools, paint, garden equipment etc.
- Personal effects such as storage boxes / containers, toys, barbecues etc.

Background and Context

ForHousing has a legal duty to ensure all reasonable precautions are taken, to keep premises under its control, safe and free from hazards. It is therefore important to ensure that there are no obstructions in communal areas that could:

- Contribute to the spread of fire
- Create accidental fires by their combustible nature
- Prevent or reduce tenants ability to escape in the event of fire
- Produce smoke
- Hinder or prevent Emergency Services in rescue duties

- Injure people by causing trips and falls

The only exception may be where a resident has a cognitive disability such as dementia, which means they need to store a specific item in the communal corridor adjacent to their home to act as a memory aide. Where this is the case, the requirement will be documented following a person centered fire risk assessment and agreed via the permissions process, which is detailed below.

Internal Social Facilities

Some sheltered, extra care schemes, supported and general needs premises, have communal social facilities such as lounges and kitchens. Where this is the case, all furniture and furnishings will be provided or approved by ForHousing and will be risk assessed to ensure that they do not pose a health and safety risk. Tenants' belongings must not be stored or left in these areas.

On occasion, tenants may be given permission to store a specific item or install decorations / items relating to religious festivals in shared social facilities. All items must be risk assessed and requests formally agreed by ForHousing. Permission will not be given to place decorations such as wreaths on individual flat doors.

External Areas

Where a premises has shared external facilities such as a communal garden or yard, ForHousing will provide and/or approve all furniture and equipment, for example seating and planters. However, tenants may be given permission to place some items in these areas, for example hanging baskets or garden furniture. All requests must be formally agreed by ForHousing via the permissions process detailed below.

Storage Cupboards Located Within Communal Areas and Stairwells

Residents are not permitted to store any items in any cupboards, including service and meter cupboards located within the communal areas.

Permissions Process

ForHousing will operate a permissions process, whereby residents can request to store their belongings in either the internal shared social facilities or external areas of a building in which they live. This process does not apply to internal communal areas, such as landings, stairwells or internal shared facilities, such as meter cupboards.

The items requested must not pose an obstruction or hazard to residents or others occupying the building. Requests will be considered on a case-by-case basis and will be reviewed by a manager responsible for the relevant building. ForHousing reserves the right to decline or withdraw permission at any time. Any decision will be confirmed in writing.

Removal of Items and Potential Enforcement Action

ForHousing reserves the right to immediately remove and safely dispose of any items left within the communal area; this includes, but is not limited to, gas canisters, bulk rubbish, sofas, mattresses, electric scooters, mobility scooters, bicycles, motorcycles, door mats, potted plants, pictures, shelving.

The items will be stored for a period of one calendar month, during which time the owner may pay a fee to have their belongings released. Any items unclaimed at the end of the one month period will be disposed of.

Where a tenant repeatedly leaves their belongings within the communal area, legal action may be considered.

Responsibilities under this Policy

The Senior Leadership Team and Heads of Service will have the responsibility to ensure that this policy is adhered to and that there is monthly performance reporting of all key activities, e.g. weekly communal inspections undertaken as part of the cleaning contract, Fire Risk Assessments (FRAs) due and undertaken and FRA actions (maintenance and management).

The Head of Building & Fire Safety and Fire Safety Lead will review all FRA actions to ensure they are properly assigned, managed and actioned.

Implementation and Communication

If employees become aware that there are problems with the effective operation of this Policy or the associated procedures, they should report this to the Policy Owner. This feedback will be incorporated into the policy and procedural review process
